Support Several Customers At Once Online

A new addition to our website is the live chat facility at the bottom of your screen. When we are online we offer an online chat facility to allows you to communicate with us in real time. When we are offline the button allows you to send an email to us.

tick-in-the-box150 You will have come across this type of customer service facility on some of your supplier websites already. Now we can offer it to you from our partners at Formilla. There is a free service but look at the features and pricing to find out what is best for you. We use their free service. If demand increases for this line of communication then we will upgrade to the paid service.
